Handling Your Spaniel by Maxwell Riddle, prominent dog trainer and one of the authors of the Purina Gun Dog Book

The gun shy Spaniel or Cocker is If you accustom your dog to noises gradually as you train him, you won't have to worry. If he's truly gun shy, you won't have to worry either. Get another dog instead of breaking your heart over that. Many men accustom their dogs to shooting by moving them gradual up to a skeet or trap field. Others take their puppies into the field where older dogs are being shot over. This works well, specially if experi enced dogs are tied near the edge of the field.

These will pass their own excitement on to the puppy, so that when the gun goes off, it comes to mean xcitement and pleasure for the pup s for the older dog. Most Spaniels are body scent dogs. That is, they pick up scents out of the air, rather than ground tracks. For this reason, dogs which locate irds at long distances on the flush may fail to track the running crip ples. Your dog can then get practice trailing him. Mallard ducks work This sort of work is wonderful for eaching your dog to come off a hot trail when you order him to. County Passes Only 1 Major Amendment No Poll Tax for Vets

In a light vote last Tuesday Coffee County voted against Amendment No. 1, authorizing the state to issue $25 million in coad bonds to match a similar amount from the Federal government. Coffee voter also turned down the other first five mendments but voted in favor of No. 4, exempting soldiers in Korea and veterans in general from paying poll tax. Official vote on the first seven amendments was: Amendment No. 1-(road bonds) For 300, against 1,470. Amendment No. 2-(merit system) For 419, against 681. STROUDS IN THREE WARS T. M. Stroud served in World War 1, then his eldest son. Eldridge, served in World War II. His next son, Howark, is now on the fighting front in Korea. The father said Howard is with the First Cavalry Division and is expected to be returned to the U. S. in the near future. Howard s said to be an expert marksman with a 45 caliber pistol. The elder Stroud says this is the most effective weapon ever nade when fighting in close quarters.

Electrically Lighted Christmas Trees Are For Farm Children, Too ...

Remember back when "popcorn balls" colored paper "roping", tinsel and candles-despite the fire hazard-were standard decorations for farm family's Christmas tree?

Sometimes it's fun to remember the "good old days" but it's dollars to doughnuts Grandmas would've jumped at the chance to swap her housekeeping equipment for such modern conveniences as an electric stove, refrigerator, washing machine, and the many other labor-saving appliances available to the modern house-

> Forraerly, if Grandma lived on a farm, she couldn't enjoy any electric labor-saving appliances. In 1935, less than four per cent of the farm homes in this section had electricity available. Today, electric service is available not only to residents of Elba, but to most farm families in Coffee and surrounding counties.

As a wholesale supplier of electricity, Alabama Electric Cooperative is proud to see the top-notch electric service which is being made available to Elba residents thruogh the Elba Light and Water Department, and to farm families through the Covington and South Alabama Electric Cooperatives.
